This four-day Advanced Dental Hygiene Clinical Techniques Workshop is a comprehensive hands-on update on the latest, cutting-edge clinical techniques. Conceived and conducted by renowned members of the USC faculty, this unique series of courses will provide close individualized instruction in advanced hand instrumentation, advanced ultrasonic instrumentation, and periodontal endoscopy.

An in-depth experience for development of dental hygiene faculty members as well as private practitioners, this workshop will be the best post-graduate clinical continuing education program ever offered for dental hygienists. It was designed for clinicians who want to keep abreast of the newest technologies, newest products and newest techniques. Whether you graduated last year or thirty years ago, do not miss this opportunity to greatly enhance your knowledge and become more current and confident with your clinical skills than before in your career.

Topics Covered:
- Instrument sharpening: hands-on
- Use of extraoral, reinforced, cross-arch and opposite arch fulcrums
- Describe the differences between magnetostrictive and piezoelectric ultrasonic devices and tips
- Describe the three most common clinical problems with instrumentation
- Recognize the indications for extraoral, opposite arch or other alternative fulcums
- Video comparing hand and ultrasonic instrumentation
- Solutions to common clinical problems with instrumentation
- Use of Gracey 15/16, Gracey 17/18, Extra Rigid Graceys, After Fives™ and Mini Fives™, Micro Mini Fives, new sickles, diamond coated files, furcation curets, implant instruments and other new instruments
- Innovative approaches for access to difficult problem areas such as furcations, line angles and deep, narrow pockets
- Instrument sharpening: hands-on
- New instructional videos with detailed close ups of advanced instrumentation techniques
- Common clinical problems with instrumentation
- Innovative extraoral, reinforced, cross arch and opposite arch fulcums and pockets
- Specific techniques for furcations, line angles, and deep narrow pockets
- New Instructional Videos with detailed close ups of advanced instrumentation techniques

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:
- Describe the characteristics of a proper fit for gloves
- Demonstrate close overlapping strokes on an extracted tooth with a Gracey curet
- Demonstrate the use of universal curets, Gracey curets, mini-bladed and Micro-mini-bladed Gracey curets, sickle curets, diamond coated files, furcation curets, implant instruments and other new instruments
- Demonstrate techniques for scaling maxillary and mandibular furcations
- Demonstrate intraoral, finger-on-finger, extraoral, DeBeechman, new sickles, diamond coated files, furcation curets, implant instruments and other new instruments
- Participants are advised to bring safety glasses and gloves. It is advisable for attendees to not wear white clothing. Typodonts, poles, complete instruction kits and books will be provided for use only during the course.

Program Overview

Hands-On Lab
- (Sat - Jul 28 - 29, 2012, 9:00 am - 5:00pm)

Monday, July 30, 2012, 8:00am - 12:00pm

Ultrasonics - Lecture & Lab

Donna Smith, BSDH, MSEd and Dental Hygiene Faculty

This lecture and hands-on laboratory course for dentists and dental hygienists on ultrasonic equipment and techniques will allow you to evaluate and use seven different magnetostrictive and piezoelectric ultrasonic units with hands-on opportunities.

Objectives:
- The differences between magnetostrictive and piezoelectric technology
- Various ultrasonic unit designs and evaluate handle ergonomics
- Various tip designs and select tips to best suit the needs of different types of patients
- Different ultrasonic strokes and determine which techniques are best for different types of deposits using artificial deposits on typodonts.

Program Overview

This day two laboratory course for dentists and dental hygienists is designed to enhance your periodontal instrumentation, allowing you to treat patients with greater skill and confidence. This intensive hands-on experience features Donna Smith, BSDH, MSEd and Dental Hygiene Faculty from the USC Department of Dental Hygiene.

Monday, July 30, 2012, 1:00pm - 5:00pm
