SYNOPSIS
The art and science of endodontics are undergoing many exciting changes in the 21st century. Advances in biology, technology, procedures and materials make the contemporary practice of endodontics more predictable, efficient and with successful outcomes for patients. This one-day lecture course includes updates on current topics in endodontics and provides you, the clinician, with knowledge and tools to better evaluate your endodontic cases and perform evidence-based endodontic treatment with more predictable results and greater patient acceptance.
